“Before I Forget... A Memoir with Music”

by and with Sally Jane Heit
Musical Director, Uel Wade

Sally Jane Heit grew up in Brooklyn, New York where the attempt to rival attention among her seven siblings stirred her natural abilities as a performer – singing, dancing, and acting. Sally Jane trained at the New York High School of Performing Arts, Hunter College and Yale Drama School. After raising three daughters in Washington, DC, she moved to New York and was immediately cast in Michael Bennett’s musical, Ballroom, on Broadway. Her impressive list of professional credits includes theatre, television, and film. As her career flourished, she realized that her love for performing was equally matched by a restless creative spirit that wanted more; and so, she began to write.

With two successful plays under her pen, she’s decided, “It’s time to give back” with benefit performances of her latest work. Sally Jane is offering private Salon Performances of her one-woman play, “Before I Forget...A Memoir with Music”, to benefit non-profit organizations of Hosts’ choosing.

The show blends comedy and song into a poignant portrayal of real life that leaves audiences enlightened and smiling. Ms. Heit is accompanied by Uel Wade on piano. The show runs approximately 75 minutes and is typically followed by a Meet the Artist wine and dessert reception. It is always a very special evening of warmth and entertainment among friends and supporters of a local Organization.
